For thousands of years, mosaics have graced the walls, floors and ceilings of remarkable edifices across the world. Emser has developed a full selection of natural stone, ceramic and glass mosaic products that recapture the ornate beauty of this ancient art.

Mosaic is an ornamentation technique in which small pieces of colored stone, tile or glass are arranged on mesh. Mosaics are often used to form brilliant pictures and designs. While mosaics have been found all over the world, the most notable innovators of mosaic artwork were the Greek, Roman and Byzantine Empires. The term mosaic originates from the Greek word that means "patient work, worthy of the muses." In Greek and Roman Mythology, the muses were the nine goddesses of the arts who lived on Mount Olympus.

The muses would smile upon today's decorative effects achieved by modern techniques. Contemporary designers are exploring the infinite flexibility of mosaics with marvelous results. A perfect union of art and functionality, mosaics can be incorporated into any room and any décor. Mosaics add a sense of sophistication to anything from floors and walls to pools and fountains. They are also a stunning complement to any material including wood, metal, marble, ceramic, glass, plaster and stucco.
